Proposing split DPs without splitting NPs

Discontinuous (inverted) split noun phrases have been investigated extensively and as such many proposals have been put forward. So far, none of them can capture all properties that split constructions exhibit. I will propose an analysis that builds on earlier work to try and get closer to understanding what the underlying structure of split nominal constructions really is.