1. General information

1.1 Course content

This course offers insights into the politico-economic analysis of international development policies. Students will obtain an overview on the state of the art of empirical research on development aid and other international development policies. The course discusses the determinants of aid allocation, up-to-date methods for evaluating aid effectiveness at the macro and micro level, the role of conditionality, and potential reasons for the ineffectiveness of aid projects. It also covers non-state development actors, international development organizations, and so-called new donors such as China and India. More specifically, the course covers the following topics:

Chapter 1	Introduction
Chapter 2	Bilateral aid giving
Chapter 3	Multilateral aid giving
Chapter 4	China and other emerging donors and lenders
Chapter 5	Poverty targeting and political capture of aid within countries
Chapter 6	Aid effectiveness I (economic growth)
Chapter 7	Aid effectiveness II (health)
Chapter 8	Side effects of aid
Chapter 9	Migration policy
Chapter 10	Trade policy
Chapter 11	Humanitarian assistance
Chapter 12	Climate policy

Note: This is a preliminary list of topics. We will update the list as we move closer to the lecture start.

1.2 Course goals

Students learn to analyze international development policies with politico-economic theories and empirical methods.

1.3 Prerequisites

There are no formal requirements, but knowledge in the following areas is highly recommended: econometrics, microeconomics, macroeconomics, and development economics. We recommend that students take the following classes in preparation of this course:

- M.WIWI-QMW.0004.Mp: Econometrics I
- M.WIWI-VWL.0138.Mp: Quasi-Experiments in Development Economics

We strongly advise against participation if you have never taken an econometrics course before!

1.4 Credit points

6 ECTS-LP (lecture: 2 SWS; exercise session: 2 SWS).

1.5 Registration

Please register via FlexNow.

2. Course overview

2.1 Description of the teaching and learning methods

The lecture is supplemented by self-study based on provided materials and literature. The accompanying exercise session complements the lecture content. It provides a refresher for interpreting regression outputs. Research papers presented in the lecture will be discussed thoroughly with regard to content, methodology and their links to general debates in international development policy. The exercise session will also practice the writing of policy briefs to develop students' skills in policy analysis and communication. The course language is English.

2.2 Meetings

Lecture (Vorlesung):

- Every Monday, 14:15-15:45, see EXA for room
- First lecture: Monday, April 14
- Last lecture: Monday, July 14
- No lecture on April 21 and June 9

Guest lecture (Vorlesung):

- TBA

Exercise session (Übung):

- Session 1: Thursday, May 8, 14:00-16:00 s.t., see EXA for room
