Your tasks

- Planning and conducting research related to the group's core research topics. The tasks include:
- Development and design of innovative research ideas
- Contribution to third party-funding proposals of the group
- Presentation and publication of research results
- Teaching Bachelor modules in "Ecosystem Management" (German) and/or Master modules (English)
- Guidance of Bachelor/Master students, and doctoral researchers

Your profile

- PhD (completed or close to completion) in Agricultural Economics, Environmental Economics, Applied Behavioral Economics or a related field
- Strong analytical skills and experience with quantitative research methods
- Previous experience with empirical research and/or survey-based data collection
- Proven interest in topics related to the group's research
- Willingness to engage in interdisciplinary collaboration with other researchers across disciplines
- Willingness to work on-site
- German language skills for supervising students and teaching
- Excellent command of the English language

We offer

- A stimulating research environment
- Opportunities to develop own research ideas and participate in collaborative projects, e.g. www.sfb1502.de
- Excellent networks of national and international research partners
- Support in personal career development
