

Cross-world strategies for in-world reference resolution

Ana Arregui

In this talk I will focus on some 'deviant' interpretations of indexical pronouns, discussing cases of descriptive indexicals noted by Nunberg (1993) as well as impersonal you. My goal is to explore parallelisms in reference to individuals across possible worlds as well as across situations within the same world. I will argue that by considering within-world counterparts and within-world centering, we can gain insights into some puzzling interpretations of indexicals.
